

GOOD WATER IS BIG FACTOR IN CITY'S HEALTH

Physicians Agree Verde
Water Supply Will Be Great Aid to City—Present Supply a Drawback

That prominent members of the medical profession believe that the construction of the Verde water supply project for Phoenix will redound to the good of the community from a health standpoint is indicated by interviews granted yesterday to a Republican representative by several leaders in the profession.

Dr. Orville H. Brown, former head of the State Health Department, under whose leadership the influenza epi-

DUTY DELIBERATE

The preliminaries for securing for this city an incomparable water supply, one that will answer all purposes for all time to come have not been hastily or carelessly considered. Thirteen years of more or less constant investigation by engineers of the highest repute have resulted in a unanimous report in accordance with which the City Commission has called a bond election for next Saturday.

Much as we may admire or as much as we may criticize the conduct of our present city administration, those prejudices should have no effect in the consideration of this subject. While the bonds have their fullest support, the issue not only represents the present administration but all that has been best during the terms of its predecessors for many years. The gentlemen are not only carrying out their individual wishes in this most important matter but they are acting in accordance with the best thought of the best people in this best of all communities during the last decade.

The citizen who would serve himself and his fellow men should cast his influence in favor of the bonds next Saturday without reference to personalities.

demic was fought and worsted in Arizona, expressed himself as being heartily in favor of the proposition to bring soft water to the city.

"The chemical content of the present city water," said Dr. Brown, "makes it unsuitable for the consumption of many people. In some cases it retards the passage of food through the alimentary canal and leads to danger of toxic poisoning, and sometimes exposes the passage of food to such an extent as to prevent proper digestion, affecting various people in different ways.

Good Water Necessary

"Pure soft water tends to reduce the tendency to kidney diseases, arterio sclerosis and consequent cardiac affections. Good health is dependant upon the proper functioning of the vital organs, muscles, nerves and glands, and these in turn are dependant upon a good blood supply and good circulation. Anything, therefore, that is taken into the system that tends to interfere with the proper functions of the kidneys and the circulatory system in turn affects all parts of the body and insidiously brings about a condition which tends to cause susceptibility to contagion. Too much cannot be said in favor of pure water.

Dr. G. E. Goodrich, state health officer, expressed himself as being heartily in favor of a pure water supply. "There can be no doubt," he said, "of the value of an adequate supply of pure water on the public health."

Have to Use Distilled Water Now.

Dr. O. W. Sweek, a well known local surgeon, stated that he was in favor of a pure water supply, and that he found it necessary in a majority of cases, to prescribe distilled water for the use of his patients.

Dr. W. W. Watkins of the pathological laboratory stated that he has had many patients who came here for treatment leave because of the water. "It is very disagreeable to many people," he said, "and some of them never get used to it or will not stay long enough to try to do so. It is a recognized principle of human physiology that a soft water is best for human consumption, in addition to being more palatable.

"This laboratory has made analysis of Verde water and we find it of low bacterial content, an absolute necessity for good water. The high bacterial content was the reason for the unsuitability of the water from the Arizona canal for use as city water."

STUDENTS TO TOUR LIVESTOCK RANGES

Robert Q. Grant, head of the local weather bureau, will accompany a party of students and professors from the State University on a tour of the livestock ranges of the state, beginning August 4 and ending September 6. The trip will be under the direction of Dr. R. H. Williams, animal husbandman of the university, and Mr. Grant will study condition of ranges as affected by rainfall.

The first week of the course will be

REPUBLICAN WANT AD GOT BUSINESS AFAR

That The Republican's advertisements carry considerable weight not only in Phoenix and all of Arizona, but in several states adjacent, was proven yesterday when the Palace Hardware company received a post card from Delphos, New Mexico, requesting "information and circulars about a Caloric cook stove as advertised in The Arizona Republican."

The New Mexican evidently depends on The Republican for his news, as well as a complete knowledge of what is to be purchased in the markets of the southwest. This fact led local merchants whose attention was called to the far-reaching efficacy of Republican ads, to be of the opinion that Phoenix is more liable than ever to become a wholesale center.

It makes no difference what your wants may be, you can have them supplied by using and reading The Republican Classified Pages.

"Nine-Tenths of the Law," Columbia feature attraction for today and Saturday, featuring Mitchell Lewis, is a story admirably played by a strong cast and most consistently acted throughout.

This six-reel number presents one of the most human and altogether touching stories that has come out of that paradise of the story-teller—the north woods. It is so big and simple in its conception and so direct in its development that it will have almost universal appeal. Child interest, intense mother love and stirring personal encounters between rugged men of the woods are features of the tale, which is pictured in a wild region in perfect keeping with the story.

Comment on the work of little Bessie Reeves must be of a special nature. It stands out of the picture and remains a happy memory of a frolicsome child, quite unlike anything of its kind we can recall.

The locations are entirely praiseworthy and the photography excellent. Jimmy Maye is commendable in a necessary role and will appeal to the women of the audience. Julius Frankenberg makes much of a small part.

A Gaumont Graphic and a Strand comedy support the feature.

Riverside Park

The augmented orchestra at Riverside Park is the talk of the town, for it puts the orchestra at this popular resort head and shoulders ahead of anything in the valley. The banjo player made an instant hit, and if you think he can't jazz—you've got another think coming, and you owe it to yourself to go to the park to hear him. His work on the saxophone too, is great and adds not a little to the general enjoyment of the dance which is nightly held in the big open air pavilion. A WONDERFUL OIL BARGAIN

For necessary reasons which will be satisfactorily explained, I will sacrifice for quick acceptance several thousand acres of oil leases in the most promising oil field in Texas at a fractional part of their real value.

These are all commercial leases, well selected on best geological advice, and geological reports will be furnished.

If you are interested, or expect to be, in the oil game, you cannot afford to pass up this opportunity without investigating—it will make you money. Companies: A block of these leases will greatly enhance the value of your stock. Will make exceptionally attractive drilling contract.
